

3 questions to:

Yoann NUSSBAUMER
CEO
Chargemap

As a new mobility operator, what are your first impressions?

Chargemap offers an electric mobility range since June 2017. In these short months, we have learned and progressed very quickly. As well, the number of available networks with the Chargemap Pass and the number of clients are multiplying by leaps and bounds.

We are also noticing that the public charging ecosystem in France has also progressed in a few months on the issue of roaming. Though there is still some progress to make, especially in the quality of services for charging stations, progress has been undeniable.

The ecosystem needs to continue along this path so that electric cars drivers can trust the charging infrastructure. This is where the Charge Point Symposium plays an important role in the exchanges between the different actors.

Chargemap gives access to French network charging services, is there a European future?

At the moment the Chargemap Pass accesses French networks only, however this should change in the upcoming weeks. We currently have 150 000 users on our mobile app, so it is obviously it's essential for us to move up to the next level - Europe. Our number one team motivator!

Will there be any announcements made at the Symposium?

At last year's symposium, we announced the launch of the Chargemap Pass. As partners this year, we cannot just come empty handed... so of course, we will be making some announcements!

---

Chargemap publishes the leading mobile application in Europe for charging stations and brings together a community of 150 000 electric car users in more than 20 countries. Also sold is the Chargemap Pass, an access and payment solution to multi-network charging stations.

More info : <https://chargemap.com>